Overview:

Patricia L. Brasted serves as President/CEO of Wichita Technology Corporation (WTC), a public-private partnership between local & state government, academia and the private sector whose mission is to promote and expand a formal innovation network that will support technology advancement, transfer and commercialization in Wichita and South Central Kansas.

This statewide technology network was created to leverage public resources with that of the private sector in order to maintain and facilitate business formation and growth by enhancing research & development activity, providing business assistance at critical phases of a technology start-up life cycle and providing access to capital. The team at WTC works with entrepreneurs, researchers, technology managers, and private investors throughout Kansas, as well as maintains working relationships with national research labs, research universities and venture capitalists across the US to carryout this mission that contributes to the growth of the Kansas economy by creating high paying jobs and wealth.

Under the leadership of Ms. Brasted, the WTC organization has assisted hundreds of entrepreneurs, invested seed capital dollars in over 40 technology companies, representing 60 patented technologies in diverse technology areas such as advanced materials, manufacturing technology, biotech, broadband & telecommunications, proprietary engineering services, consumer products, information technology and software solutions.

Ms. Brasted, also a successful entrepreneur, founded her first company, Brasted Consulting, Inc. in 1995 and in 2001 started Digital Office Systems with her husband and two other partners. She has over twenty years experience in corporate finance, venture capital and accounting including both private industry as well as spending five years in a public accounting practice. As a CPA with an MBA she has experience in corporate finance, tax, business valuation, debt and equity financing strategies, mergers, acquisitions, market research, new product positioning and strategic planning, corporate structure & business formation, and early-stage venture capital.

Ms. Brasted is one of the founding members of the first angel organization in Kansas, the Midwest Venture Alliance (MVA). MVA was founded in 2005 and has provided 12 rounds of capital to Kansas companies. MVA has currently launched a new program called the Rural Kansas Angel Initiative to engage investors and entrepreneurs across the state of Kansas.

Ms. Brasted is the current Chair of the National Association of Seed and Venture Funds (NASVF) Board of Directors. She also currently serves on the Wichita Metro Chamber Board of Directors. Her diverse business background and entrepreneurial drive have allowed WTC as well as its clients to achieve commercial success and a solid reputation in the business community. Ms. Brasted is also a frequent speaker on accessing venture capital and angel investing and serves of the Boards of several private technology companies.
